

To Whom It May Concern:

It is my sincere pleasure to write this letter or recommendation for my student Matthew Cook. I have the distinct privilege this year of teaching him Economics as a part of his senior schedule. During the time that I have known Matthew, his enthusiasm for learning, outstanding communication skills, and exemplary higher order thinking abilities have been apparent in his classroom performance. As a result of his work ethic, he earned a 95 on his most recent progress report. Matthew always strives for excellence in his academic classes, which is especially impressive, since 12th grade can sometimes be a year where students do not perform to their fullest potential. As a freshman, Matthew was inducted into the Beta Club and received an Eagle Award for outstanding citizenship. In his sophomore year, he was nominated for the Governor's Honors Program in the area of Engineering and he also earned the grades that made him eligible to be inducted into the National Honor Society as a junior; all while learning online, from home. Overall, I would describe Mr. Cook as an ambitious, insightful, and diligent young man.

Besides his ingenuity as a student, Matthew has also participated in various extracurricular activities. For instance, he has demonstrated exemplary leadership and athletic skills as a member of the golf team, which he has played on since 6th grade. Additionally, he exhibits his passion for giving back to the community by enthusiastically serving as a peer leader and participating in the local area studies program at our school. He enjoys spending his time on projects that benefit our youngest learners and elderly citizens. During community service events, he can usually be found lending a helping hand with set up and break down, and always does so with a smile. It is quite obvious that he is no stranger to hard work! Matthew strives to be a productive member of society, and his dedication to volunteerism and community involvement help to illustrate his self-directed learning and attitude beyond the traditional classroom experience.

Mr. Matthew Cook is an intelligent, responsible, and personable young man, and I highly recommend him for any opportunities or endeavors where determination, professionalism, and impeccable character are valued.

Respectfully,
